3. payment of the legal minimum wage to all
4. representation at all regional meetings

Under standards to be met during 1965 to 1966, Mr. Moore stated that new employees hired after September 1st, 1965, must have had some library courses and that we will have to have four people full time. All soiled, outdated material was to have been removed from the shelves by the first of September and that has been done. We are in good shape for meeting these standards. In order to receive state aid we must meet these requirements.

Continuing with the suggested time table of standards, Mr. Moore noted that we must have quarterly board meetings by 1966 to 1967, and by 1968, five to seven trustees, with definite terms of office established. Also we will have to determine and adopt a written policy for governing the library. The Board is to set the policy and the librarian, to carry it out.

Mrs. Dyster mentioned that she needed another typewriter and a new filing case, preferably legal size and four drawers. The Secretary said a new book was needed in which to record the minutes of the meeting.

After some small discussion about additional money raising ideas such as a craft show or candle sale, the meeting was adjourned at 9:05.

Respectfully submitted,
Elinor Wright, Secretary

Now that the excavation of the Young People's Building is under way - with the excavation complete, the cement poured for the foundation walls, and the upper structure of the building taking shape - the recounting of the activities that brought all this about seems rather prosaic.

But for the sake of the record and for possible reference while building is in progress, it would seem that these details should be noted.
